Thanksgiving in the United States

In most countries, people usually eat traditional food on special holidays. A special day in the United States is Thanksgiving. It is always on the fourth Thursday in November and it is a time to give thanks for food in the autumn. At this time, people also remember the first travelers from England who came to live in America about 400 years ago.

['trævlə] ['ɪŋglənd]

These travelers had a long, hard winter, and many of them died. In the next autumn, they gave thanks for life and food in their new home. These days, most Americans still celebrate this idea of giving thanks by having a big meal at home with their family. The main dish of this meal is almost always turkey, a large bird.

some vegetables.

Next, put this into the bird.

Then, cook it at a very high temperature for a long time.

[ˈtempɾəʃə]
First, put everything you need together in a large bowl.

A tall, slender glass filled with a vibrant yellow smoothie, topped with a thin layer of foam. A gold-colored straw is inserted into the drink. The glass sits on a white surface, and a soft shadow is cast to the right. Overlaid on the center of the image is the text "Thank you!" in a large, bold, pink font. A second, identical text "Thank you!" is visible in a brown font directly beneath the pink one, creating a layered effect.

Thank you!

Thank you!
