Do you think there is a ghost in the world? More than 20 years ago, a student jumped from the top of the clock tower in the University of Birmingham.

He did this only because he failed his final exam.

After his death, a superstition(迷信) began: Anyone who walks under the clock tower will have bad luck in his exam. Years later, students there still remembered the story of the tower. Although Birmingham is the second largest city in Britain, the university is green and quiet. The grass around the tower has been worn away by the feet of students who refuse to pass underneath the tower.

The university had to pave (铺) extra paths, so students could walk to their classrooms without passing under the most terrible area. But, one day just before an important exam, a top student in the university walked under the clock tower because he was lost in thought. However, he got high marks in the exam the next day. Quickly students all knew about it. Then they realized that the most important thing is working hard.

Whenever I go under the clock tower, I will tell myself, “Working hard is the key to success.”

- () 1. Why did the student jump from the top of the tower?
- A. Because he saw a ghost there.
 - B. Because he was very careless.
 - C. Because he didn't pass his final exam.
 - D. Because there was no risk.

- ()2. The University of Birmingham lies in _____.
- A. the largest country
 - B. the middle of America
 - C. the largest city in Britain
 - D. the second largest city in Britain
- ()3. What did the university do with the problem?
- A. It paved other roads for the students.
 - B. It ordered students to walk under the tower.
 - C. It moved the clock tower away at last.
 - D. It didn't do anything for the students.

根据短文内容,判断下列句子的正(T)误(F)。

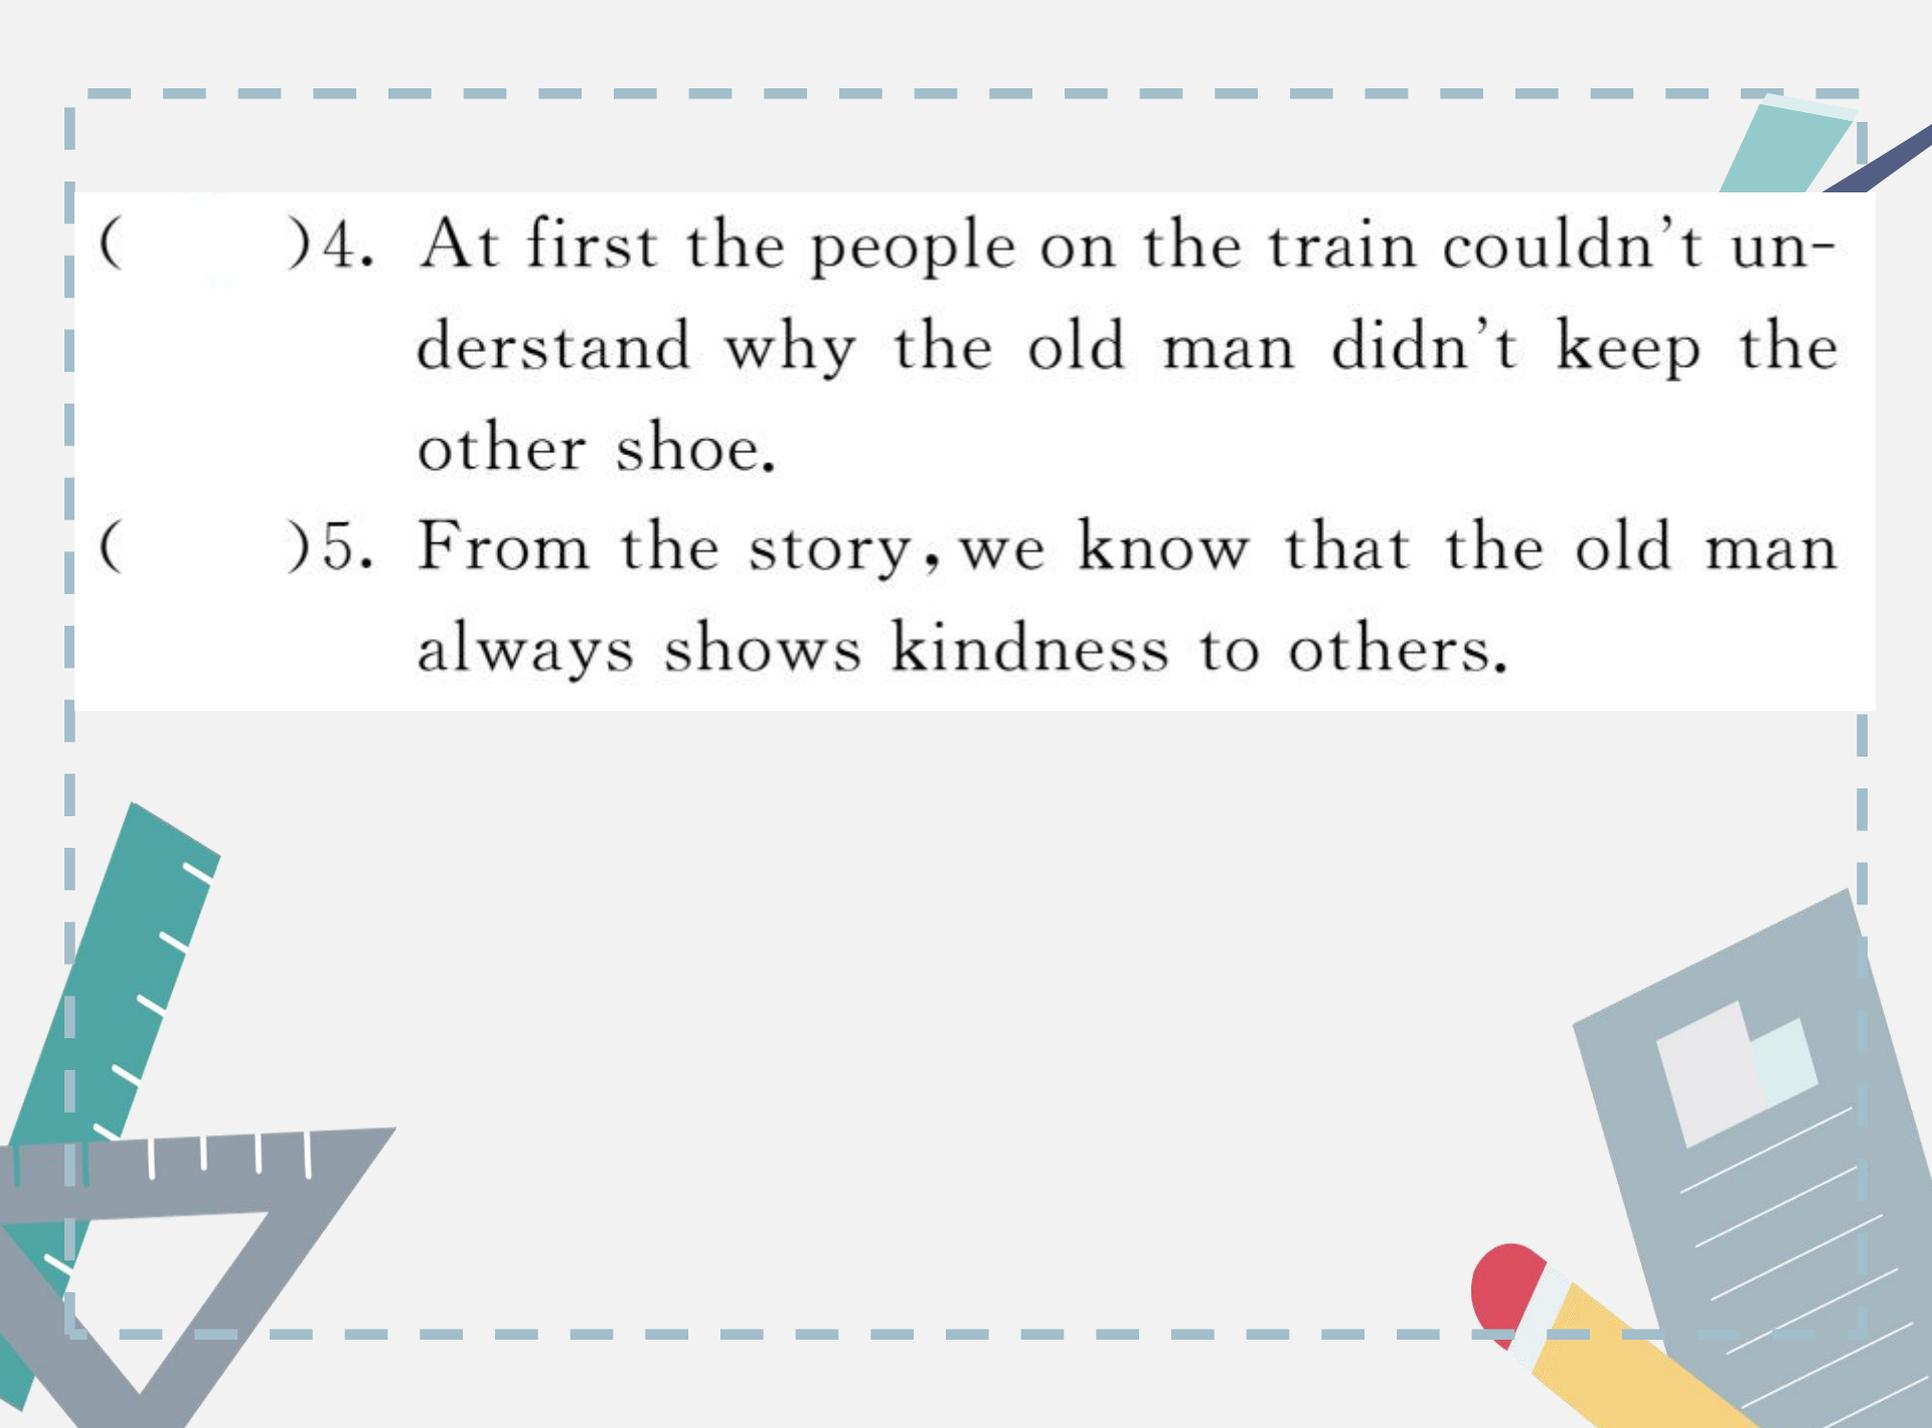

An old man sat on a train. He just went to visit his son and he was going back to his hometown.

He was looking at the new shoes and he was very happy because his son bought the shoes for him. Suddenly, one of the shoes dropped from the train by accident. The people around him all thought it was a pity. So the people on the train all said to him, "Don't worry! It's only one shoe; you still have the other shoe." But to their surprise, the old man threw the other shoe out of the window. A woman next to him asked him, “Why did you do that? It’s new.”

The old man said with a smile, “Only one shoe is no use for me. But if some people find that pair of shoes, they can wear them happily!” The people around him all smiled and understood why the old man threw the other shoe out of the window.

- () 1. The old man was on the way to visit his son by train.
- () 2. The old man’s son bought a pair of shoes for him so he was very happy.
